

Nicola Paltrinieri – short biography

Nicola Paltrinieri is associate professor of risk analysis and leader of the NTNU Team Hydrogen at NTNU (Norway). He is also adjunct professor in offshore HSE management at the university of Bologna (Italy). He has earned a PhD in Environmental, Safety and Chemical Engineering from the University of Bologna. From 2012 to 2016 he was research scientist at the department of Safety Research, SINTEF Technology and Society (Norway) and in 2012 he held a postdoctoral position at the university of Bologna. He is chartered engineer in the British Engineering Council register and chartered scientist in the British Science Council register. He serves as associate editor of the journal “Safety Science”. He is member of the editorial boards of the “Journal of Marine Science and Engineering”, “Journal of Risk Research” and “Safety in Extreme Environments”. He is member of the board of the NTNU Team Hydrogen. He is member of the board and treasurer of the Society of Risk Analysis – Europe. He serves as Norwegian delegate of the Working Party on Loss Prevention and Safety Promotion within the European Federation of Chemical Engineering. He is co-chair on Accident and Incident modelling, European Safety and Reliability Association Technical Committee. He serves as member of the of the scientific committees for the ESREL, Loss Prevention and CISAP conferences.